

Red

Alexander S. Peak

Red

Dripping bright from the neon sign
Hungry for life in all the wrong places
Flooding through the frame of the door
And into a new room

Drip...drip...

The sound of technological breakthroughs
Of connections across the world
Breaking the chains with a touch of a finger
Setting her blue eyes free
And into the back yard to find her love